7.4. Each hunter is to designate which territory he or she will be hunting in by placing their personal identification tag on the hook representing the area he or she are hunting in.

7.5. Crossing one territory line is acceptable outside deer hunting season, meaning you may hunt in all territories surrounding the one you tagged.

7.5.1. If you decide to hunt farther from your original area, then you should return to check in locker and move your tag to your desired area.

7.6. After your hunt the tag must be removed.

7.10. All hunters are to stay on club property. Crossing property lines is trespassing and the neighbors may prosecute. If you track a shot deer off club property it is at your own risk. Please do everything you can to avoid upsetting neighbors.

7.11. No words or actions shall discourage any members from hunting any area they desire as long as the territory is available.

8. HUNT EXCHANGE

8.1. A member can hunt other chapters of JVMSC by exchanging with a member from the chapter desired to hunt.

8.2. The member who wishes to try an exchange must notify the club manager of the desired period of time and the area he/she wishes to hunt. This should take place at least two weeks ahead of the desired hunting date.

8.3. The information will then be forwarded to all members in that chapter. The members in the chapter will respond either yes or no.

8.4. When members agree on a period of time a temporary license will be issued to all participating in the exchange.

8.5. If there is no response from club members after two weeks, the club manager may issue a temporary license for the other chapter.

10.5. Conflicting territories will be entered into a hat and drawn at random.

10.6. Those members not receiving their first choice will have to enter his/her next choice into the hat and start the lottery over until all members are placed.

10.7. Any members not participating in the lottery will be able to hunt on any remaining territories not reserved by lottery participants.

They should give you a very clear idea of what we all can expect from each other, which is simply organization, safety, and mutual respect. Give suggestions that you think will benefit the club, to the club owner and property managers.

18.2. Carry a compass; hunters have been known to get lost in the woods for hours.

18.3. Watch out for wells, cisterns, and sinkholes, some sinkholes are deep and hard to see, especially if it gets dark.

18.4. Learn the property lines well and hunt 100 yards or so within them. This precaution is put in place so that if an animal strays after being shot hopefully it will stay on club property.

18.5. Get an aerial photo from the State Land office, Indianapolis they charge $3.00. Then you can copy the property lines and territory lines from the map in the check in center.

18.5.1. Canadian chapter maps are Ripley County sheet # 06 –14 and sheet # 06-13

19. OWNERS NOTES

19.1. Keep in mind that this is a family farm. Its' primary use is for family functions, timber, and farming. Club members, like the owner, family, and farmers, are representatives of the owner and are expected to treat everybody with great respect. The hunting club is meant to work as a symbiotic relationship with JVMR for the promotion of family oriented pleasurable activity. If it can't function as such the club will be terminated.

19.2. The barns within the territories are available for the club members to use as long as they are taken care of and not hindering progress of farming, tobacco, JVMR, IXCR, and cattle.

19.3. All time, labor, materials, research, or anything donated for the club and/or club property is greatly appreciated. All members, not just the donator, shall share the benefits of these donations equally. In no way is there to be any type of vested interest reflected towards any individual or faction of members within the club. The club is not a free society.

19.4. If all these rules and guidelines intimidate you then you may want to consider not joining. This club will require honesty, self-discipline, responsibility, and mutual respect for all things. A true hunter will already possess these assets, or at least be aware of them, and aspire to achieve them. This is the kind of man John Vincent was.

19.5. Complaints of undesirable actions and rules broken are suggested to be anonymous to prevent bias, misunderstandings, and hard feelings.

19.6. These latest editions of the JVMSC guidelines were edited in April 2025.
